

Profiles in Healing

Dynamic Duo pave a path to wellness.

Becky and Marianne. Also known as “the girls” of Upland Hills Health’s Cardiac Rehab program. With personalities and work styles that compliment each other perfectly, these two nurses are passionate about their patients.

“We don’t just administer therapy or time on a treadmill,” explains Becky, “we work to help patients understand how to care for their bodies.”

Progress is their mantra. And that comes in the form of small victories—that add up to big changes in a patient’s health and lifestyle. While demanding that patient’s work to reach goals, the cardiac rehab center looks more like a coffee klatch than a healthcare regimen.

“Keeping it fun and individualized is the key,” shares Marianne. “Each patient has unique needs and preferences. We take those into account.”

Not only do they dish it out, these special women walk the talk. Becky is an accomplished marathon runner and Marianne is a student of alternative exercise therapies. They know first hand that helping others starts with taking care of you.

Becky and Marianne are two of the many exceptional people at Upland Hills Health. Dedicated to helping patients and families take the path to wellness.

Becky Tank and Marianne Crowley are part of our Cardio-pulmonary Services Team. 930-7160.
